

December 25, 2025: On the Governmental Intrusion into our Home

Just to continue recording what we are experiencing in our home this Christmas:

For the fourth year in a row (yes, this has now carried on for four years now) our government is illegally spying on our homelife.

I am expressly writing to you, publicly, that the government has the ability to watch you inside of your home, inside of your bathrooms, inside of your kitchens, and inside of your bedrooms.

Over the past four years, this has been made very clear to us as a team of criminals uses this spying technology to 'engage' with us at every moment of our life - even on Christmas day, four years in a row. Their general technique is to drive cars past the front of our home as a means of 'communicating' with us that we are being monitored and watched.

Now, look closely at what these criminals do in their private lives: they are raping women, abusing prostitutes, and attempting to entice young girls into massages and other forms of prostitution - all while threatening and extorting each other to 'stay quiet' about it.

So, basically, the all-seeing eye of the government is pointed into our homes while they are hiding everything about themselves. Their basic game is extortion now.

They are clearly seeking to learn enough embarrassing and compromising information about their targets as they can while they hide their identities, lives, fears, weaknesses, and criminal behaviors from all of the people that are providing them with their salaries, offices, positions in government, etc.

This is the truth of Christmas 2025. Things are not 'Merry' around our home, in fact, the more we pretend to be upset by our government, the more our government appears to feel satisfied with itself. The United States of America is no longer a 'good' country that should be admired by the world as a 'beacon of light on the hill.' The United States of America is an embarrassment to me, personally - and it should be to you too.

The United States of America has fallen into the hands of criminals that are raping women, spreading 'ass-fault' across our cities, states, and country, and that are hiding their crimes while illegally monitoring and oppressing homes like mine and my wife's.

How did I learn about this? Well, it turns out that they have been watching me for my entire life - before I ever became a lawyer, before I ever involved myself in the political world.

Your government, and mine, is hopelessly addicted to spying on the people that it is supposedly representing, supporting, and facilitating.

The government of America is one body of a very dark and pathetic criminal operation.

'Merry Christmas, America.'
